

Keep our Public Lands in Public Hands

Dear Senator Warren,

One of the great things about this country is that we've got some of the most iconic landscapes in the world and we've had the foresight to protect them for future generations – places like the Grand Canyon and the Everglades, our many state and local parks, forests and beaches including Cape Cod National Seashore here in Massachusetts.

This year is the 100th anniversary of the National Park Service. We should celebrate, and we will. But unfortunately, many of our public lands are under threat. There are proposals to mine just outside of the Grand Canyon and to drill right near the Florida Everglades for just two examples. Many of our special places are desperately in need of maintenance. And there are even efforts to seize our public lands and sell them off to the highest bidder.

To help celebrate the centennial of the National Park Service, we are calling on you to do everything you can - including speaking out publicly in support of our national parks - to keep our public lands in public hands, to ensure they are well-funded and maintained, and to protect them from pollution or other threats. Together we can make sure all Americans can experience the wonders of the great outdoors today and for the next 100 years.

Sincerely,
